A new office in Turin for Pavia e Ansaldo

The firm is revitalising its presence in the north-west by moving into the historic Società delle Acque Potabili di Torino building in the heart of the city, thereby strengthening its ties with local businesses

Milan/Turin, 14 July 2026 – Pavia e Ansaldo announces the opening of its new Turin office, located at Via San Quintino 14, within the historic Società Acque Potabili di Torino building in the heart of the city, confirming its commitment to maintaining a presence in a region of strategic importance for the national business community.

The new office, which replaces the premises at Corso Luigi Einaudi 18, represents a further step in the firm's growth and stems from the need for more functional and prestigious premises, in line with the consolidation of Pavia e Ansaldo's presence in the region. The move further strengthens the firm's presence in the Piedmont area and follows the recent entries of Massimo Longo and Gaia Benessia as Partners, confirming the growth of the Turin office.

"We are very pleased to be able to welcome our clients to our new offices, situated in a historic building at the heart of the city's business and professional district, which perfectly embodies the values of solidity, excellence and quality that have always distinguished Pavia e Ansaldo. We are convinced that our expertise will continue to serve as a benchmark for businesses in a region that stands out for its extraordinary capacity to innovate, create value and compete in national and international markets", says Massimiliano Elia, Head of Pavia e

Ansaldo’s Turin office.

The opening of the new office forms part of a broader development strategy for the firm, aimed at consolidating its presence in Italy’s main economic centres and strengthening dialogue with the local business community, supporting companies and investors in the face of increasingly complex legal, regulatory and business challenges.

“We continue to believe strongly in the potential of this region and in the strategic role that Turin plays within the Italian economic system. The city is now a key hub for the North-West and a constantly evolving environment, characterised by significant opportunities for development. The new office represents an investment that supports the firm’s growth and further strengthens our ability to be close to our clients, offering increasingly timely, expert and integrated advice,” comments Stefano Bianchi, Managing Partner of Pavia e Ansaldo.
